News of the Week

The news from the East for the past week has been quite meagre and unimportant further than a partial report of the movement of our forces in Virginia, and the probable advantages gained thereby. And it appears that our Generals have been pretty successful in keeping their plans confined to themselves, thus preventing the publication of what is going to be done long before it happens, as has been too much the case heretofore. That the protracted stillness on the Potomac has at last been broken there is no doubt, and that our great army is again in motion is also certain. Burnside and McClellan have both crossed the Potomac into Virginia, taking with them nearly the whole of the immense army massed along the river from Alexandria to Harper's Ferry, leaving but a small force at Harper's Ferry and Bolivar Heights to [illegible] those places. Gen. Burnside has command of the right wing, which is reported to be the largest half of our army, and has pressed steadily forward from Harper's Ferry through the Blue Mountain toward the Shenandoah Valley, having already reached Percilvill[illegible], while McClellan, in command of the left wing, is marching on Bunker Hill and more directly toward James river. The rebel forces have been divided between Jackson and Longstreet, Jackson having command of the right and Longstreet and Lee of the left wing of their forces. It is the impression of those who have minutely watched the grand strategical movements of these immense armies, that General Burnside has succeeded in turning the left flank of the enemy, and that a heavy blow will soon be struck, if it has not already been done, in which the enemy will find himself so completely crippled that a movement on Richmond by direct line as also up the James river can be speedily and easily effected without serious interference. But that our readers may gain a better idea of the general outline of affairs than we are at present able to furnish, we take the liberty of inserting the following from the Sacramento Union of the 29th and 31st ult.

The latest advices from our army report that Gen. Pleasanton's command was near what was supposed to be the rebel Longstreet's position, in the vicinity of Ashby's Gap and the Shenandoah. In spite of reports that the rebel army had fallen back towards Staunton and Gordonsville, the movements of the Federal army were based upon the assumption that Lee maintained his position between Bunker Hill and the Shenandoah. Richmond papers of the 23d deny that the rebel army had retreated. The question will soon be determined. Gen. Hooker, it seems, has not taken the field. An advance of the Army of the Potomac without Hooker appears like the play of Hamlet with the part of Hamlet omitted. Whether the rebel army has retreated or remained to abide a decisive trial of strength and skill, is now the all absorbing question. By a retreat Lee loses the prestige of his Northern advance and leaves us a large extent of Virginia territory. By remaining to fight, we gain the opportunity to administer a staggering blow, which may this time be improved. Gen. Mitchell has been troubling Beauregard, as we learn from a curious dispatch in a Richmond journal. The drift of the story is that Mitchell sent an expedition, consisting of land and naval forces, to cut the Charleston and Savannah railroad at Coosawatchee and Pocotaligo, in the Beaufort District. Beauregard admits that this object was accomplished, but claims that the troops were driven back to the gunboats, leaving their dead and wounded behind. The dispatch is suggestive of a Federal success. The wild stories of a hundred thousand rebels threatening Bolivar and Memphis turn out to be inventions of the silliest description. Far from being menaced in Memphis, General Sherman, who commands there, has been acting upon the offensive, sending out expeditions to break up rebel camps in the adjacent country. The reports in regard to the situation at Nashville were also fictions. Rosecrans has gone to take command of the Department of the Cumberland, which comprises all of Tennessee east of the Tennessee river and parts of Alabama and Georgia. Crittenden's corps crippled Kirby Smith's rear guard, forty miles from Cumberland Gap, capturing 90 rebels and a number of head of cattle.

The main body of Lee's army remains in its chosen position between Bunker Hill and the Shenandoah, apparently determined to abide the test of battle. In order to guard against an attack on the right flank, detachments have been stationed at Ashby's Gap and Front Royal, while between Gordonsville and Culpepper there is a heavy force commanded by the redoubtable Jo. Johnston, ready to push northward in case Sigel should attempt to cut the communications of the army in the valley. The advance of McClellan's left wing was rendered necessary by a bold design of Stonewall Jackson to make a sudden dash upon Sigel's corps at Centreville. This scheme was baffled by Burnside's advance and the enemy are again entirely upon the defensive. If McClellan assails the rebel position at Bunker Hill it will be the probable task of Sigel to watch Johnston, and in case victory shines upon the Union arms in the valley, to press forward and endeavor to cut the line of retreat to Richmond. In the meantime the forces concentrated at Suffolk, below the James, and commanded by Major General Peck, have been actively reconnoitering, and have gained possession of the Petersburg railroad as far as Zuni station on the Blackwater. With this advantageous disposition of forces the struggle may be fierce and sanguinary, but it can hardly fail to be decisive, if Gen. Halleck insists upon the abandonment of the policy of fighting a battle and resting for a month.

Eastern News

NEW YORK, Oct. [illegible] [illegible] announce [illegible] regiments to garrison the towns in [illegible] during the sickly season. They have been in [illegible] six months under [illegible] officers.

HARPER'S FERRY, October [illegible]th.—It has been ascertained [illegible]

NEW YORK, Oct. [illegible].—A dispatch to the [illegible], dated Berlin, Va., Oct. [illegible], says [illegible] all the horses to [illegible] for the use of the army without reference to the [illegible] of the owners.

It is believed that Bragg is on his way from Cumberland Gap to [illegible].

CAIRO, October 31st.—The [illegible] says [illegible] seven thousand men have landed at [illegible] on the line of the Mobile and Montgomery and Pensacola Railroad.

[illegible] A. R. Nelson, of Tennessee, publishes a letter denouncing the President's emancipation proclamation, and [illegible] would be ashamed.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30th.—The [illegible] arrested by General Wool [illegible] unconditionally released by the President. General Wool defends his course on the ground that the arrested parties were circulating a petition for his removal among the soldiers under him—a proceeding contrary to all military rules.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A special Washington dispatch says: It is believed that the pirate Alabama is now on the track of the Aspinwall steamers, for the purpose of intercepting the treasure shipped to New York.

BOISE MINING DISTRICT.—The Mountaineer of the 7th says the new mines on Boise river are about 300 miles from Walla Walla. The route follows the old emigrant trail across Malheur river and down it to Snake river, across Snake river to the mouth of Payette, up Payette 75 miles, and thence across the mountains in an easterly direction to the diggings. The mines are in a basin over forty miles long, and fair prospects have been found over a large portion of it. Grimes Creek is the richest portion yet discovered. The largest prospect yet obtained is about an ounce to the pan.

On the 27th of October about seventy-five men were in the new mines. The dust is thought to be worth $16 or $17 per ounce, and resembles Elk City dust.

THE RUSH DOWN.—Cariboo-ites are now returning in large squads, many of them sadder if not wiser men. A few have done well, others have made wages, some have enough to pay their passage to Victoria or a port on the Sound, and a great majority are dependent for whiskey upon bumming and for grub upon charity. The steamers at Esquimalt for San Francisco dodge dead heads by laying off in the stream and putting ticket-holders on board in small boats. The last big crowd has been to Cariboo.—North West.

An officer of Garibaldi's army tenders the service of 6,000 Italian patriots, including 200 of Garibaldi's best officers, to the Union cause. The tender was made about a month since to Gov. Morgan of New York. It is understood that the Garibaldians whose services are thus tendered will have no difficulty in leaving for the United States. They have taken no part in the late demonstrations, and are living quietly at their homes as peaceful citizens—retaining, however, their general form of military organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—The money market was easier than last steamer day. Receipts of treasure last night were $280,000, which gives a total of $2,[illegible]60,000 since last steamer. Gold bars sold at $20a$30. The offering is about $1,000,000 worth. Exchange on Atlantic cities rules 5a6 per cent. for bankers' bills payable in coin and 15a20 for bill payable in currency. Legal tenders sold at 14 and 16 per cent. discount.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—We learn from a gentleman just from Oregon City that Capt. Hatch fell on Thursday evening last about 35 feet from the top of Mr. Harvey's mill building, which is in course of erection at that place. He fell upon a solid pile of rocks, and although not killed is dangerously hurt. A remarkable escape from instant death. Mr. Hatch was apparently rational and hopes were entertained of his recovery when our informant left.

PLEASANT.—The weather this Fall has been unusually dry and pleasant, affording a fine opportunity for our farmers to seed down their Fall grains and make preparations for the Winter when it comes, and come it surely will by and by. The fair weather has also favored the completion of several important and extensive improvements in our city, which were commenced at a late period in the season.

NEW ROAD.—We learn that the Portland and Milwaukie Macadamised Road Company have filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office of this county. Capital stock $50,000. We further learn that the company propose to locate the road on the west bank of the Willamette, crossing at Milwaukie.

POSTPONED.—The Indian Council at the Lapwai was dispersed. There will be no treaty made until next May. In the meantime two companies of troops are to be stationed at the new military post on the Lapwai, two miles above the Agency buildings. One of them is infantry from Col. Steinberger's regiment and a company of Oregon cavalry.—Mountaineer.

A NEW MOTOR.—The Paris Moniteur Universel says: The new motive power invented by M. Lenoir, the principle of which is the expansion of air by gas lighted by means of electricity, has realized all the hopes we formed of it. A machine of six horse power with double cylinder now works the presses of the Moniteur.

COTTON OR CORN.—The Richmond Examiner had lately a long article on cotton and corn, in which it confesses that the rebels are in a dilemma, afraid of starvation if they don't grow corn and of annihilation if they don't grow cotton.

General Schenck of Ohio, lately elected to Congress over Vallandigham, was at last accounts suffering in Washington a good deal from a bad wound. No visitors were allowed to see him. His right arm was terribly injured between the wrist and the elbow.

Not a single officer in the United States army has yet resigned on account of the emancipation [illegible].

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Advices from St. Vincent, one of the West India Islands, with dates to the [illegible], brings news of a serious uprising of negro laborers against producers and managers. Houses were burned, robberies committed, and one overseer killed. The whites turned out and killed seven negroes and captured 200. Troops were sent from Barbadoes and the insurrection quelled.

LOUISVILLE, November 1.—Gen. Rosseau and staff left this morning for the field. Gen. Gilbert's corps was in the vicinity of Bowling Green yesterday. The advance of Crittenden's corps probably reached that place last evening.

Gen. Buell, before transferring command to Rosecrans, reorganized the army. It now consists of two armies under the command of Crittenden and McCook.

CAIRO, Nov. 1st.—We have a rumor by way of Corinth that Mobile is ours. The report was brought in by rebel prisoners captured by our scouts.

HALIFAX, Nov. 1st.—The Arabia from Liverpool on the 18th, has arrived.

It was reported that Confederate privateers were in the Mediterranean and had captured a dozen Federal vessels. The report may have arisen from the destruction of whaling vessels by the Alabama.

The English papers advance nothing new on American affairs. Some of them continue to call for the recognition of the Southern Confederacy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3d.—Monthly steamers are about to commence running to northern Mexican ports again. The Oregon leaves on the 15th.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

CITY MATTERS.—Our attention has been called to the fact that we omitted to mention one other important item of expenditure which has been paid for out of revenue of the city, to wit: water cisterns for use of fire companies when needed. We admit the fact that these necessary items have perhaps cost the city thousands of dollars, and we learn that contracts have been let for the building of several additional reservoirs, which will amount in the aggregate to more than five thousand dollars. We further know that the expense of keeping up the Fire Department of the city amounts to a very large sum annually, which no one ought to grumble at provided the expenditures are judiciously made and carefully guarded.

The taxable property of the city of Portland amounts to more than two and a half millions of dollars, and the annual revenue of the city for the last three or four years has averaged at least thirteen thousand dollars, over six thousand of which has been received from licenses, fines, etc. The city government is composed of a Mayor, nine Councilmen, City Recorder, Marshal, Attorney, Collector, Assessor and Treasurer, one Street Commissioner and one Surveyor. The Mayor and Councilmen receive no pay or emoluments for their services. The Recorder and Marshal receive fees, collectable from parties in law, arrested for violation of city laws when solvent, and from the city when not solvent. The Marshal also receives $3 per night for each evening's attendance on City Council. The City Attorney receives $500, and the Assessor's fees amount to about $200. The Collector receives five per cent. on all moneys collected, and the Treasurer three per cent. on receipts and disbursements. The Street Commissioner receives five dollars per day for each day's service upon the streets, and the City Surveyor gets eight dollars per day for his services and an additional sum for assistants. Allowing the Collector to receive say $700 per annum as per centage, the Attorney $500, the Treasurer $400, and supposing the Street Commissioner spends 100 days on the streets, which we consider a large estimate, from the general appearance of the streets, amounting to $500, and the City Surveyor 50 days, a sufficient time we would reasonably suppose to survey the whole city, making $400 more: these sums together would make $2,500. Now, allowing the still further sum of $2,500 for gas light and other incidental expenditures, and we can account for $5,000 out of $13,000, leaving $8,000 to be squandered, as before remarked, the Lord knows where. This figuring may be considered by some as too light, and not near up to a fair estimate of what should be allowed; yet, when we reflect that but few of the city officers receive a salary or compensation from the public treasury for their services, it will be seen that the system was intended to be as cheap as possible, and thus save our citizens from onerous and burdensome taxation. The city tax is limited to five mills on the dollar, and is now four mills, which added to the Federal, State, County, School and Road tax amounts to a fearful sum, and unquestionably operates prejudicial to the settlement and growth of our city and community. The city of Portland is now some $2,500 behind hand, notwithstanding the immense sum paid into the treasury each year.

REMARKABLE DAY.—This has been a remarkably dull week for local news, nothing of any note, or out of the routine of every day life having occurred of which we could [illegible]. Our reporter has grumbled and [illegible] his head, paced up and down all around the town, but nothing could he find. If any [illegible] fellow could only have seen [illegible] disappointed countenance of our reporter as he would come in each evening and [illegible] the words, 'no items,' we are sure he would have gone right away and hanged or drowned himself, or perished in the attempt, for no other purpose than to furnish [illegible]—but such has not been the case, and humanity is still disgraced with a number of those splendid whelps and no remedy for them. Our reporter says he knows of [illegible] of whom he would like to chronicle the sudden disappearance. Selah.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Hensely, arraigned for drunk and disorderly conduct, fined $5 and costs; paid and discharged.

Patrick McKa, arraigned for the same offense, fined $5 and costs, in default of which he was sent to city jail for 3 days.

The Markets.

Quotations this week show some change throughout, though not of great importance. Trade has been quite good during the past week, and prices looking up. Country produce has been coming in freely, especially butter, eggs and small articles. Bacon is scarce in market, and demand large. But little flour and wheat has yet come in from new crop, farmers holding back in anticipation of better prices. Apples, best winter, are selling at 75 cents per bushel; this decline is owing to large quantities having been received in a proper condition.

The late cold weather has operated disastrous to many speculators in apples, as much has been destroyed by the frost, and buyers are [illegible] of receiving large supplies. We anticipate better prices before spring, as the supply from the country must have decreased much during the cold weather. There have [illegible] arrivals of note since last reports and [illegible] to the upper Columbia are not in receipt of very large supplies for that region, as the season is too far advanced to create a heavy [illegible]d with prospects of reaching the mines [illegible] communication closes. However, large quantities will undoubtedly be stored during the winter for the opening of spring trade.

THE [illegible] OF PARTY DISSENSION AT THIS TIME.—The Bulletin commenting on politics in New York makes these remarks in conclusion

We doubt not the equal patriotism of Gov Seymour and Gen Wadsworth of Democratic and Republican parties Whichever rules we doubt not that the war for the Union will proceed until peace can be established upon a permanent and enduring basis, and the old flag is honored again from the St Lawrence to the Rio Grande but it strikes us as inex pressibly sad that party could not have been allowed to lie in quietness until the affair had been ended It is a great conservator in time of peace, as it was also then a great sinner against good morals But now, when our very life is in danger, it is a specially unwel come apparition The worst fear is that the triumph of the Democracy just now will en courage the rebels to maintain their attitude of defense until the next Presidential election —hoping that then they can get better terms than now It would be a straw for the sink ing rebellion to grasp at Democratic success only lengthens the war, if they should try the administration of affairs for a year, we do not doubt they would at last turn to the same grand remedy which President Lincoln has been compelled to adopt

A PHILOSOPHICAL SOLDIER EDITOR —W. W Bloss, recent local editor of the Rochester (N Y) Express, was wounded in one of the late battles in Maryland In a letter to his wife Lieut Bloss alludes to his mishap

"I hope to see you very soon, and make a short sojourn at Rose Cottage though my in juries are not serious enough to justify a long furlough On the whole the misfortune is rather advantageous. You remember that the bridge of my nose was a square built, homely structure, likely at all times to be condemned on artistic principles Now, in the providence of God, its arch or key stone is clean carried away, and I shall have something better ad apted to modern taste I have lost my voice but it will come back, I think The lips which you loved are badly disfigured but will soon be put in repair. The wound in my hand is trifling. On the whole, I am prepared to thank God, in whom I trusted, that I was enabled to do my duty when the time [illegible]

The Springfield (Ill ) correspondent of the Missouri Democrat, gives the following ac count of an attempt upon the life of President Lincoln. While he was on his way late in the evening, from Washington to the Soldier's Home, where he at present resides, Mr Lin coln was fired at from the roadside by some assassin, the ball passing quite close to his person. His horse, a very spirited animal, took fright at the report of the firearm and running away with the rider, was only check ed after Mr. Lincoln had very severely sprain ed his wrist. The President since the occur rence has been accompanied by a troop of horse as a body guard

1776 AND 1862.—These are the times that try men's souls The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in such a crisis as this, shrink from the service of his country But he who stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman Rebellion, like hell, is not easily conquered, but we have this satisfaction with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph — Thomas Paine, 1776

[illegible] BET.—Several weeks ago General Lee proposed a bet of one thousand dollars to ten that in one week he would dine in Wash ington. We accepted the wager, but we don't believe that Lee will ever pay us one red cent. He will sooner, if necessary, plead the gam bling act. But we mean to employ Sheriff McClellan to collect the money for us — Louisville Journal
